

HMHU201 SUGGESTION FOR CA3

Q# 1. Define with examples - Compounding Backformation, Clipping and Blending :

Ans :

- i. Compounding-It is a word formation process in which two or more independent words are combined to create a new word with a new meaning.
Examples:
Blackboard = black + board
Toothpaste = tooth + paste
Railway = rail + way
Smartphone = smart + phone
- ii. Backformation-It is the process of creating a new word by removing a real or imagined affix from an existing word.
Examples:
Edit from editor
Donate from donation
Babysit from babysitter
Burgle from burglar
- iii. Clipping- It is the shortening of a longer word without changing its meaning.
Examples:
Exam from examination
Lab from laboratory
Phone from telephone
Ad from advertisement
- iv. Blending- It is the formation of a new word by combining parts of two different words.
Examples:
Brunch = breakfast + lunch
Smog = smoke + fog
Infotainment = information + entertainment
Motel = motor + hotel

Q# 2. Fill in the blanks using Transition words to form Coherence

- i. Riya studied very hard for the examination; therefore, she scored excellent marks.
- ii. The roads were flooded after the heavy rain, so , many people stayed indoors.

[EXPLANATION : In both above sentences, the relationship is one of cause and effect. However, the choice between “therefore” and “so” depends on the punctuation used in the sentence.

“Therefore” is generally used when two independent clauses are connected with a semicolon (;).

Example:

Riya studied very hard for the examination; therefore, she scored excellent marks.

On the other hand, “so” is commonly used when the clauses are joined with a comma (,).

Example:

Riya studied very hard for the examination, so she scored excellent marks.

Thus, punctuation plays an important role in determining which transition word is more appropriate.]

- iii. Although the weather was very hot, the players continued the match.
- iv. The teacher explained the lesson clearly. Furthermore/Additionally , she provided extra notes for practice.
- v. Rahul was preparing the presentation. Meanwhile, his teammates arranged the charts and handouts.

Q# 4. What is redundancy in language? Explain with suitable examples

Ans :

Redundancy in language refers to the unnecessary repetition of words or ideas that do not add any new meaning to a sentence. It makes communication wordy and less effective.

Examples of Redundancy

- Advance planning → Planning itself means preparing in advance.
- Repeat again → Repeat already means to do again.
- Past history → History always refers to the past.
- Free gift → A gift is naturally free.
- Return back → Return already means to go back.

Correct Forms

- Planning
- Repeat
- History
- Gift
- Return

Different between idioms & cliches with suitable examples.

Ans:

Basis	Idioms	Clichés
Definition	Idioms are fixed expressions whose meanings are different from the literal meanings of the words used.	Clichés are overused expressions or ideas that have lost their originality and impact.
Purpose	They make language expressive and colorful.	They are often used out of habit and may sound uncreative.
Meaning	The meaning is figurative.	The meaning is usually direct and familiar.
Usage	Commonly used in everyday communication.	Often avoided in formal or creative writing because of overuse.

Q# 5. What do you mean by simple , compound and complex sentence. Explain with examples

Ans:

i. Simple Sentence

A simple sentence contains only one independent clause. It expresses a complete thought and has one subject and one predicate.

Examples:

- Riya sings beautifully.
- The sun rises in the east.
- We enjoyed the picnic.

ii. Compound Sentence

A compound sentence contains two or more independent clauses joined by coordinating conjunctions such as and, but, or, so, yet.

Examples:

- Riya studied hard, and she passed the examination.
- The weather was hot, but the players continued the match.
- He was tired, so he went to bed early.

iii. Complex Sentence

A complex sentence contains one independent clause and one or more dependent (subordinate) clauses.

Examples:

- Although it was raining, they went outside.
- She smiled when she saw her friend.
- If you work hard, you will succeed.

Ans :

Yesterday, our English teacher told us that communication is not only about speaking clearly; it is also about listening carefully. However, many students ignore this important skill. Can you imagine a conversation where nobody listens to each other? It would be confusing, frustrating, and meaningless. My friend Arjun said, "I always try to listen, but sometimes my mind wanders during long discussions." The teacher smiled and replied, "Practice patience and concentration, and you will improve gradually."
